"As Fine a Whisky As I Ever Drank."

As I EVEF DEADK.

So say the majority of those who try our "Tennessee" One of 'hose scarce whiskles whose use never gives a "head" or any other disagreeable experience! A genuine Lincoln county product, and so good a liquid as to endanger Kentucky's reputation for preducing the best whiskles. No harshness or "bite" to it, but so smooth and mellow as to win the tiking of the most fastidious drinker. No medicine in the world can best it as a remedy for throat and lung troubles. It's the best kind of a "medicine chest" to keep in the house. We ask $1 for a large bo'tle, 75c a pirt and 40c, a half pint. Order it after laying down this paper. Baltimore Team Coming. The basket ball team of the Corcoran Cadet Corps will line-up tomorrow evening at the Light Infantry armory at 8:15 o'clock against the strong Y. M. C. A. team of Baltimore. The team from the oriole city is the fastest team in the east, having twenty-two victories to its credit this season, a record that has never been equaled in Washington. Harmon, the famous center, will be seen in that position. He is one of the fastest men playing the game, a strong player and an accurate goal thrower. He will have for an opponent Davis, who is the best all-around man of the C. C. C.

team. The latter says he will give his man a tussle.

The soldier boys are in fine trim, having devoted four nights of each week for the last month to practice. Captain McGlue says his team will give a fine exhibition of the sport.

Brooklyn Tryingsto Sell Griffin's Re-

CURRENT TALK OF THE GAME ___M_an __ a Bowling on the Alleys of the Y.

120 T (3 C. A. C. COMPASS WHIST

Manager Hanlon of the Brooklyn club

showed his hand yesterday and disclosed an important situation in his aggregation, when he placed Centerfielder Griffin on the market at $5,000. This great player was offered to President Freedman of the New York club at these figures, but he refused to buy, claiming he had all the players he desired. Griffin was offered and signed a contract last fall to manage and captain the Brooklyn team the coming season for $3,500. The Baltimore-Brooklyn consolidation then cropped out and the present heads of the two clubs find that they have a white elephant on their hands. Joe Kelley has signed with Manager Hanlon to play first and captain the team, and he will receive in the neighborhood of $2,800. Griffin, at $3,500, is too expensive, and Hanion will try to dispese of him, but there are very few clubs at this late day that have are very few cluos at this fate day that have $5,000 to put out for a centerfielder. Manager Hanlon knows very well that Griffin, dissatisfied at a cut in his salary, would be about as good as Pete Browning to the Brooklyn club in centerfied, and he will not pay out $3,500. For these reasons an important trade can be looked for Lange important trade can be looked for. Lange important trade can be looked for. Lange of Chicago would be an even trade, or "Dusty" Miller of Cincinnati and a stiff bonus might prove advantageous to all partles concerned. Mike Griffin is undoubtedly one of the best players in the big league today, but men of his caliber are not in such great demand as they were some seasons back. Should Griffin be released outright many clubs would immediately bid for him on account of his reputation and drawing ability, but from present indications Manager Hanlon will have to cut his figures in twaln before he will find a buyer. It would be money well spent for the It would be money well spent for the league as a body to purchase Griffin's re-lease and present him to the New York club, as he would strengthen that aggregation wonderfully.

"If those tiresome, egotistical owners of "If those tiresome, "egotistical owners of base ball teams, by mistaken courtesy called magnates, would" only abandon the base ball stage and "give the players—in whom the American public is interested—a chance to get into the calciumed circle, how very glad and how very thankful every one would be," writes a well-known western base ball reporter.

"Some people, mostly base ball-steeped reporters, club managers and the magnates themselves, seem to think their meetings and sessions, their doings and sayings, of tremendous importance, and that the entire and sessions, their doings and sayings, of tremendous importance, and that the entire country hangs upon their lips. Doubtless the fate of base ball, to some extent, depends upon these inflated fellows, yet if the doors of the meeting room were thrown open to the public and it warm and most important session of the National League promised, how many persons outside of reporters, players, managers and others intimately associated with and directly interested in base ball, would attend such a convention? Not one foundred. It is the playvention? Not one mandred. It is the play-er in whom the people are interested. They care very little about amendments to rules; indeed, not one intevery lifty spectators at a base ball game knows the rules in any-thing like thorough fastion. Many of the players do not. But that does not militate against the intense interest taken in the game by the people, who make it profitable to the magnates. Go dawn the line of the or the magnates. Go down the line of the grand stand and bleachers any day in the season and ask every man you meet who owns this club or that iffow many correct answers will you receive? But ask him to name the pitchers of that club. Ten to one he will not only know their names, but their averages, their strength and weakness and everything else connected with them. everything else connected with them. Personally, the writer considers it a waste of newspaper space to print anything valuable newspaper space to print anything about what the magnates do or do not do. Printing schedules in full, committee reports, amendments to rules, etc., is seemingly a great waste of good space in a newspaper. They are like congressional minutes—seldom read and never remembered. But the magnates seem to think that they are the entire show. As a matter of fact, they are doing the game, and through it themselves, irreparable injury.

Receiver Muckinfuss of the St. Louis Base Ball Club said yesterday that Brush and Robison would probably arrive in that city today, according to a special from the mound city. Muckinfuss claims that Beck-er will be the successful bidder for the Browns and that Robison will come to an agreement with him immediately after the sale. With the sale of the St. Louis club less than a week away interest begins to less than a week away interest begins to stimulate, and conferences are being held daily with lawyers as to the best way to pursue in the matter. The action of the league does not seem to have had much effect on the prospective bidders. Von der Ahe is a daily caller at his attorney's office, and whether he intends to take any hand in the sale all parties concerned refuse to state. The pool-room sendicate has become very aggressive and confident, and have given out the statement that the prehave given out the statement that the parties who buy the club will have to make some pretty stiff bids before securing the

The many friends of Secretary Robert Young in the National League did not forget that last night he was to take an im-portant step in life in entering the role of benedicts. The members of the Washing-ton club came forward with a handsome ton club came forward with a handsome set of French china, the Philadelphia team forwarded a handsome clock and a beautiful set of gold and enamel candelabra, while the Cincinnati boys expended their money lavishly upon several handsome pieces of tableware. Mr. Young is a young man in base ball circles, but the little time he has been in harness has demonstrated bis congenial disposition and friendshipmaking proclivities.

The Cincinnati papers are still harping on the report that Catcher McGuire will play in that city the coming season. Ren Mulford, in the Commercial-Tribune, says that McGuire will receive a royal reception in Cincinnati, as the enthusiasts of that city believe him to be about the finest catcher in the business. McGuire has always had luck when playing in Cincinnati with the Washington club, his hitting being tremendous and his fielding of the most sensational order, and it is only natural for the people of the queen city to desire "Old Reliable" on the Reds' pay roll.

Present indications are that Jimmy Casey will play third base for the Washington club the coming season. It is an unfortunate fact that Casey's work on the third sack on the local grounds has been far from satisfactory, but while away from home the players all speak in the highest terms of the little one's playing. It is now claimed that the local field, especially around third base, is out of kelter—has been kicked at by such crack-a-jacks as Collins and McGraw—and that a new line grade will be built up before the season opens. It is Manager Irvin's intention to surround Casey with all the advantages possible, and to give him a thorough trying-out at third base before placing a drag-net out for another player to fill that position. Casey has already become a big favorite, add it is the wish of all that he will fill the Bill.

CARROLLS: WON TWO. Series of Games With the C. A. C.

Bowlers. The bowling alleys of the Young Men's Christian Association were alive with league bowlers last night. The Carroll Institute team, splendid players and a combination hard to beat, and the victims of but few defeats this season, met the Columbia Athletic Club team. The match was finely played, all of the team scores were good. and a number of excellent single strings were run. Carrolls won out in the first two games, but were defeated by a good margin in the final. The result of the evening's in the mail. The result of the evening's play lowers the percentage of both clubs, and draws the Carrolls down a whit closer to the Saengerbunds, who are running a close second in the District League.

Gorman and Ricker each bowled in splendid form, and led their respective sides. Gorman averaging 179, and Dr. Ricker, 178.

Finished With the Top Score. Quite an array of whist players gathered at the rooms of the Columbia Athletic Club last night to indulge in the regular weekly compass whist tournament. The playing was of the highest order and but few cold tricks were dropped by either pair participating. The committee having the tournament in hand have worked diligently towards reviving an interest in the game and the attendance last night demonstrated conclusively that their work was well done. Senator Gallinger and Dr. Walls, as usual, played excellent whist, finishing number one last night. Messrs, Lowe and Mackall were not far behind, being No. 2, while Macy and Strong finished third. The other pairs finished as follows: Washburn and Ingels, 4: Harvey and

Washburn and Ingels, 4; Harvey and Howard, 5; Safford and Ellis, 6; Sensner and Young, 7-8; McDermott and Patton, 7-8; Myers and Cooper, 9; Lee and Hough, 10; Lundy and Jackson, 11, and Barrett and Sabin, 12. The Safford scoring system was used and proved very satisfactory, not an error being discovered at the end of Light Infantry Defeats Mt. Pleasant The Washington Light Infantry basket ball team added another victory to its list last night in defeating the team from the Mt. Pleasant Athletic Club. The score was 22 to 5.

The Mt. Pleasants put up a good game, and though they had but little show of winning they played their men well and showed a great improvement in their work. The soldier boys played a fast game, and did excellent work in passing. Harry Lee was back in his old position at home goal and materially strengthened the Infantry

Was Eagle, Not Rabbitt. A. S. Rabbitt writes as follows to The Star regarding a paragraph in yesterday's issue:

"I note in your sporting columns of this issue, March S, where you have me as tried by the Washington management in 1898. Please correct this statement, as follows. Late in the season of 1897 I was called to Washington by Mr. J. Earl Wagner to cover second base, on account of the absence of Wrigley, who was then in Philadelphia, Pa., attending a funeral of a relative. We were to play the Clevelands that afternoon, and just as we went out to practice, before the beginning of the game, Wrigley came back and went in the game, I not taking part at all, and never did participate in a game for Washington, although I was there last season, late in the season, on about the same mission as the preceding year, but again not taking part in the game. I would suggest, from your conclusion, that you refer to Outfielder Wm. Eagle, who did take part in two games, making a good showing in the first, but was somewhat off in the second event. As to the remarks about Columbus, Ga., they were correct."

Innovations in the Rowing Plans of 'Yale and Harvard.

Ord Preston of Yale University has made the first official announcement regarding the new plans of Yale and Harvard in boating. They are as follows:

an error being discovered at the end of play.

Next Wednesday evening will probably be a notable one at the Columbia parlors, as besides the usual attendance, a very large delegation of Capitol Hill whisters have given notice of their intention of participating and also several members of the Kenmore Club. The whist committee should be notified in ample time by those intending your mistake. He is here at present."
